Thousands Who Flock to Marion Will
be Given Permission to View The Remains

By TOM GERBER
(Special to The Daily Republican)
Marion, Ohio, Aug. 9—Warren G.
Harding is home.

At 12:34 p. m. today the sorrowing
city received back the body of her son, twenty-ninth president of the United States, who died in the service
of the nation.

A hush broke only by the solemn
tolling of every church bell, fell over
the town as the train moved slowly
through the yards.

Entering Marion, the train ran
through a long lane of men, women,
and children, massed on both sides
of the track and with heads bowed.

At the station a company of national
guardsmen stood stiffly at attention.
At 12:43 p. m. the casket
was removed through a rear window
of the observation car, in which it
had been carried from coast to coast.

There was no sound save the deep clanging of the tolling bells. While the coffin was being placed on a baggage
truck, the honor guard, representing all branches of the service, stood at attention, and Mrs. Harding left the train.

Mrs. Harding leaned heavily on Presidential Secretary George Christian,
General Sawyer followed and
then came members of the cabinet
and Senator Cummins and Speaker
Gillett, representing both branches
of congress.

Mrs. Harding walked slowly to her automobile as the casket was being placed in the gray hearse by pallbearers,
who were bent by its great weight.

Absolute silence prevailed until
the body had been placed in the hearse and Mrs. Harding had left
the platform, then a switch engine,
with clanging bell, clattered over a crossing and the noises of the railroad
yard were resumed.

At 1:15 p. m. the hearse started
for the home of the president's aged father, Dr. George Harding, where a large crowd awaited it.

The hearse which will carry the

KETCHUM FINDS NO TRUTH IN THE STORY

Prosecutor Announces He Has Made Complete Investigation Into Alleged Attack on Girl.

SUFFERS AN HALLUCINATION

Prosecutor Gates Ketchum issued
a statement today in which he stated that he had just completed making
an investigation of the alleged attack
on Zella Aldridge, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aldridge of Sexton, and the officer
branded the story as false, and said
that in his estimation the young woman
has suffered from an hallucination.

The prosecutor stated that no
charges would be filed, because there
was no violation of any criminal law,
and the matter was out of his hands.

He said that he conversed with
the young woman for two hours, and after asking her many questions and
receiving her answers, he said the story did not seem probable, and the
incidents did not hang together.

Miss Aldridge, however, still clings
to the story and refuses to break down and make a confession.

Neighbors living in that vicinity
are alarmed over the conditions that are said to exist, and may appeal
for help, it is said.

I. & C. Cars To Stop 3 Minutes at 2 P. M. Friday

Cars on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company lines will stop for three minutes at two o'clock Friday afternoon in recognition of the request President Coolidge and Governor McCray made for nation-wide mourning on the day of President Harding's funeral at Marion, O. The order given to the interurban conductors and motormen applied to all divisions.

COFFIN MAGNET FOR THOUSANDS

People in Maryland and Pennsylvania Put Aside Work And Bid

EARLIER SCENES RE-ENACTED

Mrs. Harding Rests Well During Night Following Her Trying Day
in Washington Wednesday

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

On Board The President Harding
Funeral Train, Aug. 9.—Ohio, mother
state of six presidents, received
back today the latest of her sons to add lustre to her name. Returning
in death, he bore upon his bier
the garlands of a nation's sorrow and love.

Warren G. Harding came back to his home folk this morning. Years ago he went from them into larger spheres of activity and honor, full
of splendid vigor, robust in health.
He came back today cold and pale
in death, the majesty of sacrifice and
service graven upon his still face—
back to the mother state that waited
with outstretched arms to receive
him to his rest.

The funeral train from Washington
entered Ohio early today. It was scheduled to end its journey at Marion
about 9:30 a. m. (Central Standard Time.) At that hour the body of Marion's most distinguished citizen
was to be turned over to tear-blinded
relatives, friends and neighbors
who awaited it.

The coffin, shrouded by the flag
of the country Mr. Harding served
well, again was the magnet that drew eyes of thousands during the night, in Maryland and Pennsylvania,
as people put aside their own
concerns to look the farewell they could not put into words.

Beginning at Baltimore, one hour
out of Washington, and continuing
through York, Harrisburg, Altoona
and Pittsburgh, the scenes that marked the train's transcontinental
progress eastward were re-enacted
as it sped through the night and dawn.

At Baltimore, a rainstorm drenched
the thousands who awaited the
the lights of the funeral special faded
into the distance. At York, Pa.,
silver horns played the stirring hymn,
"Lead Kindly Light," while thousands
sang.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's capital,
expressed fittingly the sorrow
of the Keystone State for her sister
commonwealth to the west. Altoona found miners and railroad workers standing in reverent silence in the night as the train glided by.

Pittsburg, for the second time in two days, sent thousands to stand uncovered in the semi-gloom of dawn. Everywhere, the train stopped flowers were put on board.

Mrs. Harding rested well after her trying day in Washington yesterday.
She was somewhat distressed by reports
that she had collapsed. There was no foundation for such reports.
Her step was as firm, her calm as unshaken, when she boarded the train at Washington last night, as at any time during the day. She was very tired and retired at once to her state room where she asked that newspapers containing the stories of the great statesman be brought to her. She read them with

MEMORIAL TO BE A PUBLIC AFFAIR

Services at Chautauqua Grounds
Friday Afternoon at 3:15 O'clock
To Be Free To All

CHANGE IN ARRANGEMENTS

Business Will Stop and Banks, Postoffice, Court House and Business Houses Will Close

At the eleventh hour today plans
were changed for the Warren G.
Harding Memorial services Friday
and it was decided to make the affair
public and free to everyone.

Original plans were for the memorial
to take place at the chautauqua
during the intermission in the band concert, but arrangements were made this afternoon for the gates of the chautauqua to be thrown open
immediately after the band concert
Friday afternoon for the memorial
and everyone who wishes to attend
will be admitted free of charge.

Mayor Thomas did not issue any
proclamation, but urged the observance
of the state and national proclamations,
which have previously been acclaimed by Governor McCray
and President Coolidge.

Fitting tribute to the deceased
president will be paid Friday afternoon
at the Rush county chautauqua
memorial service, and on account of the banner attraction of Bachman's
band, it is expected that a large crowd will be gathered together for the services.

The memorial will last 25 or 30
minutes, and will consist of an address
by the Rev. L. E. Brown, and
preceded by remarks from Dr. McClean
Work, platform manager. The Kiwanis quartette will sing during
the services, and the band will be asked to play something appropriate.

The services here will be going
on, at the same time, that the funeral services are being conducted in Marion, O.

The Rushville postoffice has announced
its program for observance
of the closing Friday afternoon on account of the funeral services of the late president, Warren G. Harding.
The windows will be closed
from one to four o'clock, with no
mail delivery in the residence section.
The last delivery of the mail in the business section will be at the usual time.

Practically all business will be at a standstill in the city after the
noon hour, and several concerns have decided to remain closed all day.

Offices in the court house will be closed all day, and the banks will

GOVERNMENT TO MOVE TO MARION

Executives, Judicial and Administrative Leaders Will Board Mourning
Train Tonight

FAREWELL VERY IMPRESSIVE

Last Journey of Body of Mr. Harding Made Through Endless Aisles
of People

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Temporary White House, Willard
Hotel, Washington, Aug. 9.—The national government of the United States moves tonight to Marion,
Ohio.

Executives, judicial and administrative
leaders of the sorrowing nation
will board a mourning train to carry the deep reverence of their people to Warren G. Harding in the little town where he will be buried.

His vice-president, now the nation's chief executive, his supreme court, his senate, his house of representatives, his officials and his friends will travel far—abandoning the necessities of government to bow their heads while his body is lowered
into the grave.

The government train leaves at 10 p. m. and will arrive at Marion
Friday.

The farewell of the capital to the body of Mr. Harding was the most impressive ceremony of the heart-rending 19 hours the remains were here.

The last journey of the body of Mr. Harding in Washington was made down from the capital to the station through an endless aisle of white sailors and khaki soldiers.
Mr. Coolidge and the Harding cabinet—which he is for the present, at least, retaining, stood with hats crossed upon their breasts while the same Marine band that greeted the body the night before, bade it farewell
in the stirring rhythm of "Lead, Kindly Light."

The sound swelled through the
great course at the station mingling
with the rumbling of trains while
Mr. Coolidge and the cabinet stood in sorrow.

The president returned to the Willard Hotel where he has his temporary office and home and dressed for dinner.

The president is deeply grieved and does not wish to be bothered with
matters of state until he returns
from the funeral services at Marion to take up vigorously the impending questions of the nation.

Action of Mr. Coolidge in the anthracite coal situation is eagerly awaited. The observers believe he will not hesitate to seize the mines

DOLLINGS CO., HIGH OFFICIALS GRILLED

Hearing on Receivership Proceedings
of Phoenix Portland Cement

PRES. BENHAM ON THE STAND

(By United Press)

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 9.—High officials
of the R. L. Dollings, fiscal brokerage house, were under fire today
in the receivership hearing of the Phoenix Portland Cement company
of Ohio, a Dollings subsidiary.

William H. Benham, president and general manager of the Dollings
Company, said to be a $94,000,000
concern, was to resume testifying at the opening of court.

Attorney General C. C. Crabbe,
questioning Benham, late yesterday
brought out that the general management carried an annual income in excess of $90,000, that Benham did
not know why thousands of dollars worth of stock was being floated in the company, and that the Phoenix
Company did not operate a plant in Nazareth, Pa.

The stock was sold, he admitted,
with the understanding that the company
controlled the Nazareth plant.

The Cement Company is the nineteenth Dollings subsidiary to go into receivership, receivers having been named for eighteen others.

Benham and Dwight Harrison,
vice president of the parent organization,
were to be questioned, relative to stock selling methods of the company.

PRISON REFORM ADVANCE SHOWN

Dr. L. V. Rule, Chaplain of Reformatory,
Speaks to Chautauqua Audience
Wednesday Night

MERCER CONCERT CO. PLEASES

Peak of Entertainment Features at Assembly to be Reached Today
and Friday

The development of the prison reform
movement in Indiana, which
started from the revelations of condition
written by a prisoner, was outlined at the chautauqua Wednesday night by Dr. L. V. Rule, chaplain at the state reformatory at Jeffersonville,
speaking in the place of
George A. H. Shideler, superintendent of the institution, who was scheduled to deliver the address, but was unable to come on account of a pressing engagement.

Dr. Rule has been chaplain at the institution for several years and most of his life has been engaged
in reform work among prisoners,
so that he was qualified to speak on the subject. He paid many compliments to Mr. Shideler's ability as an executive and his qualities as a man unusually well fitted to deal with men who live in the "city of dead souls."

The Mercer Concert company by
Harry Yeazelle Mercer, well known
American tenor, gave an hour's concert
following the lecture last night
that was appreciated by a fair sized
audience, the crowd being the smallest
night attendance this season,
which has been characterized by larger crowds.

The peak of the entertainment
features of the assembly were expected to be reached today and Friday when the Shepherd of the Hills company and Bachman's Million Dollar band were to be here. Two plays were on the program today,
"The Shepherd of the Hills" being
the offering for tonight. The band will give two concerts at 2:15 and 7:30 o'clock, and following the afternoon
concert, Dr. W. McClean Work,
the platform manager, will lecture on the topic, "The Hand of God in History."

The Mercer Concert company was easily the most popular quartet that has been here in years. Every member of the company was possessed of an unusually well trained voice
and their selection of numbers was
well suited for the concert here,
many of them being familiar to the company's hearers.

Although Mr. Mercer, by his genial

MAKES PLEA FOR FUNDAMENTALS

Benjamin J. Burris, State Superintendent
of Public Instruction,

ATTENDANCE OFFICER TALKS

Dr. Leon H. Vincent Says Lowell
Was a Patriot, Scholar, Gentleman
and Fine American

The public school is one institution
that must hew close to the line
of government fundamentals, Benjamin
J. Burris, state superintendent of public instruction, told teachers
attending the Rush county teachers
institute at the close of the session
today.

He importuned the teachers to teach children that the radical theories of government that are advanced
in many quarters are dangerous
and that the constitution has not outlived its usefulness.

The state superintendent discussed
many of the radical tendencies of the day, such as the proposal to give congress power to over-ride
decisions of the United States supreme court, declaring that such a law
would cause the whole system of government to be changed.

Mr. Burris attacked other fallacies
of government that are now being advanced as a cure for the ills of the present age and pointed to the responsibility of school teachers
everywhere in implanting firm
faith in the minds of children in American institutions and the American
form of government, which safeguards
the right of every individual
and protects him against the injustices
of the majority.

He called attention to the fact
that this government is a federal
republican and not a democracy, that it is a government in which direct action has no place.

Miss Blanche Merry, state attendance
officer, also addressed the
teachers' institute this morning,
pointing out the relation and need of
co-operation between the schools
and the county attendance officers,
and also urged the importance of
better type of individuals for the position of attendance officer.

Miss Merry stated that there are 158 attendance officers in the state,
and an effort is being made to make
the officers advanced persons, capable
in all respects, and with the aim of the state to keep all of the children in school or accounted for by the officers.

Of these officers 90 were classed

SAYS OFFICER WAS JUSTIFIED IN ACT

Bert Morgan, Federal Enforcement
Director, Holds Seth Ward, His

ANDERSON MAN WAS SHOT

Indianapolis, Ind., August 9.—
The shooting of Elisha Northcutt in Anderson yesterday by Seth Ward, a prohibition agent, was justified, Bert
C. Morgan, federal prohibition director for Indiana, declared today after returning from Anderson where he investigated the case.

"It was simply a case of Ward
shooting Northcutt or Northcutt
shooting Ward and the policeman
with him," Morgan said. "It was a question of Ward saving the policeman's
life and possibly his own."

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 9.—A coroner's inquest will be held today on the death of Elisha Northcutt, 55,
who was shot and killed by Seth
Ward, federal prohibition agent, in a raid on Northcutt's soft drink establishment
yesterday.

Ward, who was released on $2,000
bond after the shooting, and R. C.
Minton, legal advisor of the federal
prohibition department, came here
from Indianapolis for the inquest.

The enforcement agent, Mr. Ward,
mentioned above, was known here,
and will be remembered as the agent
who handcuffed a local attorney in
the court house following a liquor
trial, in which the attorney was charged by the officer with making
an attack against his reputation.

A Farmer's View of the Railroads

"I THINK that the farming business and the railroad business are so utterly dependent upon each other, their interests are so identical that the man who drives a wedge between them is either crazy or he is a crook."

"The question before us is not 'shall we save a few dollars on freight?' but 'shall the railroad business remain a business or shall it be a government agency owned in common but run by political employees?' If it is to remain a business it will have to be run as a business and run to pay at least six per cent. for its owners. If it is to be communized, that is owned in common, I am just warning you that the communists will not wish to stop there. They will some day covet your farms."

"They can't have mine!"

F. L. Chapman, Editor, "Better Farming".

Agriculture, transportation and industry are three mighty elements in America's greatness. Their interests are one and inseparable—now and always. Neither can prosper, in any substantial and lasting way, save as the others prosper in equal degree.

Michigan City Expects to Spend $10,000 For Entertainment of State Legionaires

SESSION SEPTEMBER 10-12

Water Carnival to be Feature Attraction and Airplanes Will do Many Big "Stunts"

Michigan City, Aug. 9.—The citizens of Michigan have almost completed the task of raising $10,000 for the entertainment of the thousands of Legionaires who are coming to the state convention of the American Legion to be held in this city September 10, 11 and 12. Hotel resources have been augmented here by taking over the million dollar Golfmore hotel at Grand Beach, where a thousand visitors will be housed in a beautiful hostelry on the shore of Lake Michigan. Many distinguished visitors will be quartered at the Golfmore, Sheridan Beach and Spaulding hotels. With the closing of the summer season on Labor day beach cottages and summer hotels will be at the disposal of the city's guests.

Chief among the many attractions will be the water carnival which will feature practically all of the U. S. Navy vessels on the Great Lakes and exhibitions by coast guard crews.

The aeronautical division of the U. S. Army expects to send 25 planes from the army flying field at Rantoul, Ill., which will give exhibitions and will hover the convention city for three days. A regiment of regular soldiers will be quartered in Michigan City during the Legion's engagement. This regiment will be enroute to Fort Sheridan with full equipment, from Camp Custer, Michigan, where they have been training the officers' reserve corps.

The Legion Posts in Indiana will be engaged shortly in holding elimination boxing matches among their members to determine who shall battle it out in the Fitzsimmons sky-blue arena for the State-Legion boxing Championship.

A Farmer's View of the Railroads

"I THINK that the farming business and the railroad business are so utterly dependent upon each other, their interests are so identical that the man who drives a wedge between them is either crazy or he is a crook."

"The question before us is not 'shall we save a few dollars on freight?' but 'shall the railroad business remain a business or shall it be a government agency owned in common but run by political employees?' If it is to remain a business it will have to be run as a business and run to pay at least six per cent. for its owners. If it is to be communized, that is owned in common, I am just warning you that the communists will not wish to stop there. They will some day covet your farms."

"They can't have mine!"

F. L. Chapman, Editor, "Better Farming".

Agriculture, transportation and industry are three mighty elements in America's greatness. Their interests are one and inseparable—now and always. Neither can prosper, in any substantial and lasting way, save as the others prosper in equal degree.

MONEY RAISED FOR CONVENTION

SESSION SEPTEMBER 10-12

Water Carnival to be Feature Attraction and Airplanes Will do Many Big "Stunts"

Michigan City, Aug. 9.—The citizens of Michigan have almost completed the task of raising $10,000 for the entertainment of the thousands of Legionaires who are coming to the state convention of the American Legion to be held in this city September 10, 11 and 12. Hotel resources have been augmented here by taking over the million dollar Golfmore hotel at Grand Beach, where a thousand visitors will be housed in a beautiful hostelry on the shore of Lake Michigan. Many distinguished visitors will be quartered at the Golfmore, Sheridan Beach and Spaulding hotels. With the closing of the summer season on Labor day beach cottages and summer hotels will be at the disposal of the city's guests.

Chief among the many attractions will be the water carnival which will feature practically all of the U. S. Navy vessels on the Great Lakes and exhibitions by coast guard crews.

The aeronautical division of the U. S. Army expects to send 25 planes from the army flying field at Rantout, Ill., which will give exhibitions and will hover the convention city for three days. A regiment of regular soldiers will be quartered in Michigan City during the Legion's engagement. This regiment will be enroute to Fort Sheridan with full equipment, from Camp Custer, Michigan, where they are training the officers' reserve corps.

The Legion Posts in Indiana will be engaged shortly in holding elimination boxing matches among their members to determine who shall battle it out in the Fitzsimmons sky-blue arena for the State Legion boxing Championship.

as occupying the position with an elementary school education, 64 were high school graduates and only 12 were college graduates.

She commended the local school board for hiring a person like Miss Dorothy Sparks, a college graduate, who has made her college work fit her for the position.

Miss Merry urged that the better type of attendance officer is one who will take an interest in the boys and girls, and follow them at all times in their grades, and give them help when it is needed. In this connection the attendance officer should follow the pupils to the eighth year commencement, and then encourage them to go on through high school. The aim of every attendance officer, she asserted, should be to keep for the boys and girls in school until the finish.

This personal interest of the attendance officer should also be directed upon those boys and girls who are classed as incorrigible, mentally deficient, or afflicted physically, Miss Merry urged, because in this manner it would keep the school organization in close contact.

Miss Merry also urged that school teachers should do their part in showing an interest in the pupils, and their influence, if directed in the right channels, would no doubt lessen the number of bad boys and girls and keep them in school.

The greatest places where teachers fail, she said, is in teaching discipline, and in teaching the boys and girls to respect property, and it is these things that usually result in the young people being brought into court at an early age, and made a ward of the court.

In speaking on "Lowell as a Critic, Letter-Writer, and American," Dr. L. H. Vincent this morning, in his closing lecture, paid him the tribute of being a poet, gentleman, scholar and patriot and one of the finest exponents of this new world.

Dr. Vincent has a most delightful way of lecturing and his frequent quaint methods of illustrating points that he desires to impress on his hearers makes attendance at his lectures a real joy.

This morning a dog, wholly unconcerned as a dog naturally would be, strolled into the assembly room of the court house, sniffed around and apparently sought some familiar face. Dr. Vincent was disturbed.

Dr. Vincent said Lowell's writings were distinguished by his liking for common things and delightful in that one never knows what one is going to find in them. He told of Lowell's delusion regarding poultry, common to the present day, that there was not an egg to correspond with each hen. He wrote that he found great improvement, Dr. Vincent recalled, when he sent the hired hand down to the poultry yard to read to the hens every morning a half hour before breakfast.

Dr. Vincent spoke of his lecture tours, his aversion for such things and how he described the greetings of the solemn committees with "fish-tail" hands and the smoking stoves and cold lecture halls.

The speaker said Lowell believed in a distinctly American literature but that he stood out against an American literature made over night. Dr. Vincent recalled that Dr. Johnson once said patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel, but Lowell never clung to the theory that a book was good simply because it was American.

Dr. Vincent recalled the defy of John Bull who said "You Americans call yourself a nation, where is your literature?" Promptly there sprang up an American literature, Dr. Vincent stated. It was made in a day, books were written in a day and people bought them and read them for

America's sake and gave them up for their own sake.

There came into being, he continued, an American Milton "when one Milton is enough and many of us have not done our duty by him." This American Milton wrote blank verse, Dr. Vincent asserted, that was blander than Milton's just before he fell asleep. Lowell stood out against all this, the lecturer said.

"Lowell's chief power was in being able to embody simple, everyday things in language that everybody could understand," Dr. Vincent said.

"But Lowell could not bring himself to read what he had written," Dr. Vincent recalled. "You have to have the courage to face your own verse if you have that flawless perfection that Tennyson had."

join with other business houses in closing at the noon hour. The closing of business houses at noon was requested by the city council and Mayor Thomas, at the meeting Tuesday night.

The C. I. & W., Pennsylvania, Big Four and L. E. & W. freight offices also will be closed from noon for the remainder of the day Friday on account of the period of mourning for President Harding, it was announced this morning.

Several people from Rushville and the county have made it known that they will attend the services in Marion, and many will leave early in the morning by automobile for Marion which is 179 miles from here. Some planned to go by motor today and remain in a small town near Marion tonight and others were expecting to go on the special train reserved by the republican state central committee.

Sorrowing City Receives Back The Body of Its Son

ex-president's remains was specially built, and was driven here during the night from Ravenna, Ohio. It is gray, with some small glass panels in the sides. In each panel is a Masonic emblem.

Marion awoke this morning to face the saddest ordeal of her history.

Early today Center Street, along the route from the Union Station to the home of the president's father, was roped off. In places of vantage along the line, and at the station people had begun to take their positions hours before the scheduled arrival of the funeral train.

Militiamen were stationed at every intersection to keep back the throngs eager to watch the procession.

Outside the city on the main high-

ways leading into Marion were other soldiers, diverting automobiles to parking space in the county fair grounds and nearby fields. So rapid was the influx of visitors from all parts of the country Wednesday that military authorities in charge of the traffic problem thought it best to keep all outside cars on the outskirts of Marion.

At the station, a grey motor hearse and twenty automobiles awaited the arrival of the funeral train.

The procession from the station to Dr. Harding's home was to be led by the military guard of 18 which has been with the body constantly since it left San Francisco. The hearse will be followed by three automobiles bearing members of the cabinet, Speaker Gillett and Senator Cummins.

The fourth car in line is a limousine with drawn curtains. In it will be Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, the woman to whom all the sympathy of old friends and neighbors in Marion will be offered. With her will be Secretary Christian and Brig. Gen. Sawyer.

Seven cars following that of Mrs. Harding will be occupied by relatives. These, with eight others, for other members of the Washington party—twenty cars in all—will make up the procession.

Through Center Street, the heart of Marion's business district, the concourse will go directly to Dr. Harding's home, where, after 2 p. m., the body will lie in state.

Every arrangement for the funeral made by Colonel Frank P. Lahn, President Coolidge's personal representative, and Hoke W. Donighan, lawyer and personal friend of the Hardings, has been made with the one purpose of saving Mrs. Harding the ordeal of a ceremonious funeral.

No sermon will be preached, no bands will play; there will be neither flashing of sabres, rumble of artillery wheels nor firing of salutes to mark the laying away of President Warren G. Harding.

The list of participants in the funeral procession has been limited strictly to those near relatives and closest personal and official friends whose presence has been necessary. Only fifty automobiles have been provided for the procession to the cemetery on Friday.

Yet, many thousands have come and more are coming to Marion to pay their last respects to the chief executive who was stricken down at the height of his career. These, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Harding, will be given an opportunity, for twelve hours during the president's last stop at his father's home, to pass by the coffin and view the remains.

Around the vault a space sufficient to accommodate the members of the mourning party will be roped off, and the thousands who come to pay a last tribute to the nation's dead chief will find their own positions on the grass covered slopes surrounding the vault.

Budget Savings

The Director of the Budget has filed his annual report with the President, and we are permitted to see just how the marvelous recovery from a huge estimated deficit to a substantial surplus was achieved. On July 1, 1922, the beginning of the last fiscal year, it was estimated that the end of the year, would find a deficit of $822,453,231. At the close of the year, on June 30, 1923, the deficit had been wiped out and there was a surplus of $369,657,460. In other words, the Treasury had gained during the year the sum of those two figures or $1,192,090,691. Increased receipts accounted for $768,101,415.62 of that gain and decreased expenditures accounted for $363,989,275.68.

The receipts were augmented by additional customs revenue under the rates of the tariff law, as they were assessed against rapidly rising imports from abroad. The treasury income was also increased by taxes on the higher incomes made possible by industrial prosperity, and by the zeal and energy of treasury officials in collecting huge arrears of back taxes. The decreased expenditures are due, in the words of the budget director, to "the efforts of individual departments and establishments, and to the fine spirit of cooperation by them in carrying out the economy policies of President Harding." It should be added that those executive officials have been personally urged on numerous occasions by Mr. Harding to save every penny possible, with the plain intimation from him that if they failed to give their whole hearted support to the budget as submitted to congress by the budget bureau they would be separated from their jobs.

The Fire Insurance Backlog

The dependence of home owners, as well as of business men, upon fire insurance is again emphasized by a preliminary report issued by the Bureau of Census which states that in 1920, mortgages aggregating $11,001,900,000 were outstanding upon "owned homes and farms in the Continental United States." The value of these mortgaged properties was $31,708,000,000; so that the money borrowed upon them amounted to 34.7 percent of the total.

The point to bear in mind is that had it not been for fire insurance to protect these homes and farms, it would not have been possible to borrow this huge sum, since mortgages are not in the habit of risking their money on property that may be destroyed overnight, unless their investment is properly safeguarded. It would be easy to go further and point out that had it not been possible to secure the billions mentioned above, the farms included could never have been established and would never have contributed their quota to the nation's production of food-stuffs.

Insurance is the basis of credit to a very great extent and it is dangerous to tamper with a sound credit system.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Woman Conquers"

As a rule screen beauties are not called upon to do much except to be photographed to the best effect. It is a matter which usually involves much posing elaborate lighting effects and gorgeous costuming, but in "The Woman Conquers," the first National attraction which will be seen Friday and Saturday at the Pimess Theatre, Katherine MacDonald, the "American beauty of the screen," does some acting that is said to rank among the finest of her motion picture performances in its emotional effectiveness.

Miss MacDonald also gives battle to a big brute of a man, loads the man whom she loves onto a dog sled, fights her way through a blinding blizzard guiding the dog train, and then drags the man to safety.

Such a mental and physical demands made upon Miss MacDonald and they lift her far out of the "screen beauty" class into the ranks of leading screen actresses.

"The Woman Conquers" has been produced with an all star cast including Bryant Washburn, Mitchell Lewis, June Elvidge, Clarissa Selwynne, Boris Karloff and Francis McDonald. Violet Clark wrote the story and Tom Forman directed the production. It is presented by B. P. Schulberg.

FIRPO-DOWNEY BOUT IS SET FOR AUG. 17

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9—Jack Druley, promoter of the Luis Firpo-Joe Downey bout which was called off here last night on order of Governor McCray, announced today that arrangements have been made to hold the bout on Aug. 17.

The bout was ordered stopped when citizens protested to the governor against permitting the fight to be held during the period of mourning for President Harding.

Hugh Garlind, business manager for Firpo, said the Argentine fighter had agreed to come back to Indianapolis August 17 and stage the fight in order to save Druley from heavy financial loss.

Druley had erected a special arena for the fight and thousands of tickets had been sold.

Firpo left Indianapolis this morning for New York, and from there he will go to Philadelphia for his bout with Charles Wienert next week.

Governor McCray said today he would permit the Firpo-Downey boxing exhibition to be held August 17 if the management of the fight makes it clear that it is to be an "exhibition" and not a "prize fight."

"I have one attitude, and one attitude only, simply that of upholding the law," the governor said when he was informed today that the promoters of the fight were going ahead with plans for the bout on August 17. "The law of Indiana says there shall be no prize fights."

"If the bout in question is an exhibition I have no objections. It is a question, however, whether they can bring a man of Firpo's reputation here and stage anything other than a prize fight."

With assurances from the governor that the bout would not be stopped as long as it was a "boxing match," promoters planned to keep within the law and hold the match on August 17.

Although Rushville citizens were given credit for stopping the Firpo-Downey boxing match in Indianapolis, it is understood here that Richmond citizens were the first to protest against the match being held while the body of President Harding lay unburied. The telegram drawn up by the public affairs committees of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs was sent to the governor shortly before two o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at 3:30 o'clock the Daily Republican received a bulletin that the bout had been ordered postponed by the governor.

Criqui, Wilde Show Gameness

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 9—Because there were a few, a very few, examples to prove the point, it has been a generally accepted opinion in the United States for a good many years that gameness was not one of the qualities of European fighters.

Through a hard-boiled idea that a fighter is a "dog" who resigns under punishment, Americans after scanning the notation of "retirements" on the records of European fighters, got the idea that there wasn't a real fighting heart on the other side.

When Carpentier was being steamed up as a candidate for the heavyweight championship three years ago, the skeptics pointed out: "He quit every time he had a hard fight."

When a casual mention was made of Joe Beckett and the chances of the British heavyweight champion against Dempsey, scoffs came back and retorts followed that he was the world's diving champion, without an argument.

There may be timid hearts among the European boxers. There are bound to be because there are faint-hearted ones among the American fighters. No figures are available to back up the point that the ratio of back-steppers in the European ring is no greater than it is on this side.

There are two good examples to prove the point that in at least two cases America has no sole rights to game fighting hearts.

Whatever suspicion might have been directed at Wilde, the former flyweight champion, were not based on anything that could be found on his record, but upon the general assumption that he was British and could not stand the gaff.

Wilde was the last of the world's champions that England owned, and since he was held up before his fight with Villa as the representative of the whole English class, it only follows that he should have been considered the same after the fight and that he proved himself about the gamest little fellow that was ever beaten up and out of a title.

Punched dizzy by Pancho Villa, floundering around the ring out of his head, he was carried on only by the urge of a game heart.

Wilde was praised as much for his gameness in defeat as Villa was for his part in victory.

STATE IS BUSY SUPPLYING FISH

Restocking Public Streams Shows
Interest That is Manifest in

MILLIONS HATCHED THIS YEAR

State Makes Sure That Streams are
Suitable Food For Fish

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9—Ever increasing interest is manifested by the people of the state in restocking with fish the public waters of Indiana, declares George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division of the state conservation department, and this season is an unusually busy one with the department endeavoring to fill all applications. The close of the season will see millions of baby bass, bluegills, crappie, rock bass and pike perch raised at the four state hatcheries this summer liberated in public waters.

"Our first consideration in making fish plants," says Mr. Mannfeld, "is to ascertain if the waters are unpolluted and sufficiently supplied with suitable food. We do not wish to waste fish we plant and they must have sufficient food before we introduce them to their future habitat. Most of the game fish planted live mainly at the expense of other fish." Among fishes they occupy to a great extent a position similar to the lion, tiger, wolf, and other carnivorous animals, often killing just for the love of it. Too many bass therefore confined in a body of water means they ultimately destroy all other species. On the other hand where food is plentiful, they grow rapidly. Experience proves that a large-mouth black bass will grow to be six pounds in four years.

Reports reaching the department show that squirrels are unusually plentiful this season. One warden recently reported counting 21 in a single beech tree in Owen county. The open season for shooting this animal began August 1 and ends on November 30th.

Mr. Mannfeld in a letter to 150 protective fish and game associations operating Indiana, says his division contemplates purchasing a quantity of wild rice seed for planting in streams and lakes to attract wild ducks, and that if associations interested in this work will notify him, the department will provide them with seed free of cost.

THE BEACH LILY!

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for United Press)

New York, N. Y., Aug. 9—Consider the lily of the beach! She toils not—neither does she swim.

At every beach we find them—these lilies of the beach! Their complexions are as white as the foam of the sea. Lo! They parch not and peel not, but wax fat on the sands under enormous umbrellas. Be the sun's rays too bright, they are goggled in amber lenses. What sun penetrates through their sunshades hits not flesh, but layers of powder.

It was rumored last season that Zeigfield offered a prize to the Folies girl who wept through the season without becoming disfigured by sunburn. It may be that the vogue for sun-protection started in this way.

Quite the most astounding sight that I have witnessed this year on the beaches was a "beach lily" done up in a brown batik frock, which had a high-lace-trimmed neck and long skin-tight sleeves. Her parasol

In the Heart of a Child

"Rest in Peace" reads the card on this floral offering which Ambrose J. W. Higgins, Jr., five, of New York City, hands to John Trice, White House staff officer. It was written in the lad's own scrawl. It is just one of those little things that shows that Warren G. Harding lives in the hearts of children.

hid her nether portions from view and I presumed that she was dressed for the day, so to speak. When suddenly, without warning, she leisurely lifted her parasol displaying two of the brownest bare legs that I have ever seen. The incongruity of the bather's legs and the Fifth Avenue "upper" was amazing.

Of course, there have been all sorts of lovely bathing suits introduced this season ranging from silk batiks and velvets to simple little gingham and printed linens. But the real swimmers are still wearing and will continue to wear the jersey suit as it permits complete freedom for swimming. Vacation girls find it preferable to all other types of suits and since the ban on the one-piece has been lifted at most resorts, the woman who goes in for swimming as a sport need have no qualms about wearing what she pleases.

Double rubber caps with the chin-strap are quite the best sort for the swimmer. One cannot really enjoy the water with ends of batik and bandana handkerchiefs flowing in the foam. Even the girl with the permanent wave hesitates a bit before getting her hair wet as continual applications of cold water tend to eliminate the curl.

Rubber upper-arm bracelets for swimming have tiny pockets in which small change may be kept. They come in very handy as it isn't always easy to get back to one's locker for change and popcorn and peanuts taste mighty good after a long swim.

The newest bathing shoes are made in sandal effect, with soles of heavy canvas and uppers of white canvas. Straps of colored leather are used as a trim and as a support to the foot and ankle. Often a beach shoe of this kind extends half way to the knee. The all-rubber beach shoe is pretty in its bright colors but unless the beach is free of broken glass and stones, it is inadvisable to wear a rubber-soled shoe.

While those closest to Mrs. Harding know what a soul-rending strain she is undergoing and what it is costing her to appear outwardly strong and composed while grief is wrecking her frail body, they are confident her magnificent will is going to carry her through the final rites. What may happen then they dare not guess, but until then they do not fear that she will break down.

Naval Camp Is Miniature Great Lakes Training Station

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9— "A miniature Great Lakes training station," visitors to the summer training camp of the U. S. Naval Reserves have characterized it.

Under command of Lieut. F. F. Knachel, "Camp Shank" has taken on an air of business and efficiency. More than one hundred and fifty boys, occupying individual tents are in training at the camp.

They go through a daily routine of swimming, drilling and boating. The program is similar to that of the regular navy, according to Lieut. Knachel.

Entertainment for the boys is provided in the evening in a large recreation room.

"If we can instill in the minds of the boys a deeper sense of loyalty to the flag and principles of good citizenship, the camp will certainly have been worth while," said P. M. Aikens, executive officer of the camp.

Five million dollars were appropriated by congress for the summer naval camps throughout the country. Indiana and Iowa are the only inland states having training camps.

SNOW IN NEBRASKA

Scotts Bluff, Neb., Aug. 9—A snow flurry near here today climaxed two weeks of rainy, cold weather.

Workers tunneling through the buttes for the Goring-Fort Laramie irrigation canal declared that snow fell in that section for fully five minutes.

BUSINESS HOUSES BURN

Bedford, Ind., Aug. 9—Fire of unknown origin today destroyed five one-story, frame business buildings here. The fire was discovered in the rear of a restaurant. A strong wind fanned the flames to adjoining buildings. A brick wall of two automobile salesrooms prevented the flames from spreading further. The loss has not yet been estimated.

Most Parts Of State Get Average Of About 40 Inches Of Rainfall a Year

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9.—Most parts of Indiana get an average of about forty inches of rainfall annually.

In parts of the north, slightly less than thirty five inches is the average, while in the south more than forty inches is normal, and at the extreme central south one small area usually receives as much as fifty inches or about forty per cent more than the driest part of the United States.

These conditions are spoken of at considerable length and the benefits of such precipitation noted on agricultural production, in the Hand Book of Indiana Geology, issued by the state conservation department, according to Richard Lieber, conservation director of this state.

The average decrease in precipitation in Indiana, says Mr. Lieber, is due chiefly in distance from the Gulf of Mexico, the great source of rainfall in eastern United States.

The eastern part of this state receives on an average more rainfall than the western margin, in keeping with the general increase in precipitation from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast, because the cyclonic flows, the great agency which draws moisture northward from the Gulf of Mexico, move eastward.

The Hand Book points out that Indiana's precipitation is fairly evenly distributed throughout the year. Most months received about three inches, but a little more than half of the total for the state falls during the warmer six months, April to September inclusive. The southern half receives exactly half of the total precipitation during the warmer half of the year, while the northwestern corner receives sixty percent during that period.

Though the southern half of the State receives more rain during a year than the northern half droughts are more severe in that area. This is because the larger share of the rain comes in the winter when it does the crops little good; the temperature on average is higher, thus resulting in greater evaporation, and thunderstorms the water from which the run-off decrease in frequency and intensity towards the north. About one-tenth of Indiana's precipitation in the north and one-twentieth in the south, is snow, the Hand Book says.

manner more than with his vocal work, made a special appeal to the audience, the singing of the basso, Mrs. Kuhn, seemed to be more appreciated. His rendition of some well negro spirituals was counted the best ever heard here. The singing of the soprano and contralto was also splendid and the ensemble work of the organization was splendid. The pianist was warmly applauded when she played a piano solo.

Dr. Rule, in sketching the prison reform movement in Indiana, said that Edward Eggleston, by his writings, aroused the first sentiment against bad conditions in state prisons. The speaker recounted how some wardens treated prisoners in the sixties and how Charles and Rhoda Coffin prominent Quakers obtained consent of the authorities to make an investigation and got access to Jeffersonville.

The secretary to the chaplain there, the speaker recounted, by stealth wrote down some of the incidents of prison life and they were published with the consent of Gov. Baker and others.

"This was the beginning of prison reform in Indiana," Dr. Rule asserted. "But reforms and revolutions move slowly and it was not until 1895 that Mr. Hunt was called as warden at Jeffersonville and the change from a prison to a reformatory began."

Dr. Rule pointed out that reform begins inside and is moral and spiritual. He said the state was now building a reformatory at Pendleton that would be the model for the middlewest. The chaplain asserted that the superintendent represents the spirit of the thing, "such as I have never seen." He said he had had an opportunity to compare him with other prison executives and found him the equal of any.

Dr. Rule repeated many stories of boys sent to the reformatory who were reformed and made good after a term because of Supt. Shideler's influence. Mr. Shideler could understand wayward boys' the speaker said, because he was left motherless at nine years of age and understood the pitfalls in their way.

When the boys enter the "city of dead souls," the prison chaplain asserted, only the touch of the Christ life can awaken them again.

"Hundreds of Protestant and Catholic boys," he continued, "sit under teachers who respect the religious belief of every boy in the reformatory and who try to teach them about Christ."

"Just as you mothers, by that undefinable contact with your boys, through the discipline of love, see them blossom and unfold into manhood, so the life of every delinquent needs the touch of a friend, one who is sympathetic and understanding," declared the prison chaplain, in advocating the teaching of Jesus Christ in every institution.

The superintendent at Jeffersonville, the chaplain said, encourages that square dealing is the only way to get along. One of his aphorisms is that honesty is the best evidence of reformation.

Dr. Rule pointed out that 75 per cent of the boys leaving the reformatory make a success, according to the estimate of Amos Butler, former secretary of the state board of charities, but that Mr. Shideler thought 50 per cent was a very conservative estimate.

The superintendent, the speaker said, first points out to boys that they will get along best by doing right and the chaplain then explains to them what doing right consists of. He asserted, however, that the psychology of prison life will demoralize new boys if the utmost care is not taken.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend," Mrs. G. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Pacific Regulator Co., R. A. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

257 SUMMER TERM STUDENTS

School of Music Has 257 Students Enrolled in Summer Course Under Prof. B. W. Merrill

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 9—Miss Nellie Myers, of Rushville, appeared recently in a convocation program given by students of the school of music of Indiana university. Miss Myers sang in the university chorus. An audience of approximately 2000 summer term students, faculty, and visitors heard the concert and expressed its appreciation by repeated applause.

The program in which the Rushville student participated was one of a number presented by the Indiana university school of music for the purpose of entertainment and to give students an opportunity to appear before large public audiences. This is part of the practical training which the school offers its students of voice, orchestra, band, and chorus.

Miss Myers is one of 257 students taking courses in the school of music this summer. The department of music was organized as a separate school in 1921 for the purpose of giving student's a complete education in the science and art of music, to prepare them for professional ca-

1924 Models Are the Finest Big-Sixes Studebaker Ever Built

The enthusiasm with which the new 1924 model Studebaker cars have been received locally is an indication of the reception they have enjoyed throughout the country.

No wonder. They are emphatically the most compelling values Studebaker ever offered and the public knows that Studebaker has been a consistent leader, year after year, in the amount of intrinsic value per dollar invested.

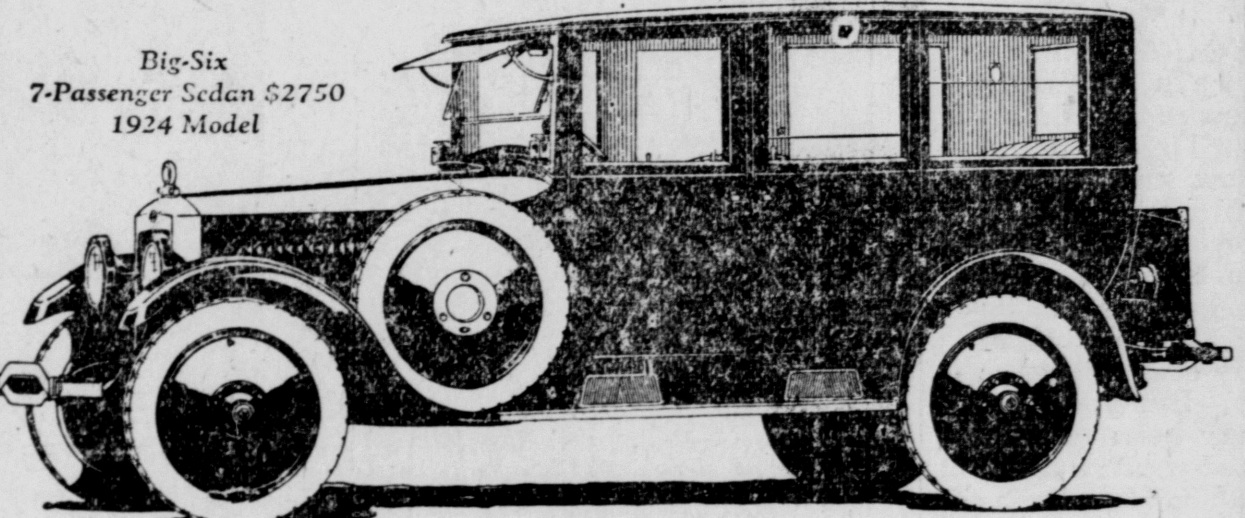

The Big-Six Sedan and the Coupe are the finest cars that have ever borne the name Studebaker. They provide all the performance, all the comfort, and all the dependability that any car will give—at a price that smaller producers cannot approach.

Everything for which one can wish in motoring convenience, comfort and utility has been provided—even to the extra disc wheel with tire, tube and tire cover (two on Sedan); handsome nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; large, roomy trunk; automatic gasoline signal, and many other features. There is nothing more to buy.

The prices of the Sedan and Coupe are moderate because of Studebaker's large production, vast physical and financial resources, the manufacture of all vital parts in Studebaker plants, and the accumulation of experience and prestige gained through 71 years of building quality vehicles.

MILITIAMEN ARE ON DUTY

Thousands Who Flock to Marion Will be Given Permission to View The

(Special to The Daily Republican)
Marion, Ohio, Aug. 9.—Warren G.
Harding is home.

At 12:34 p. m. today the sorrowing
city received back the body of her
son, twenty-ninth president of the
of the nation.

tolling of every church bell, fell over
the town as the train moved slowly
through the yards.

Entering Marion, the train ran
through a long lane of men, women,
of the track and with heads bowed.

guardsmen stood stiffly at attention.
At 12:43 p. m. the casket
was removed through a rear window
of the observation car, in which it
had been carried from coast to coast.

There was no sound save the deep
clanging of the tolling bells. While
all branches of the service, stood at attention, and Mrs. Harding left the train.

Mrs. Harding leaned heavily on Presidential Secretary George Christian.
General Sawyer followed and
then came members of the cabinet
and Senator Cummins and Speaker
Gillett, representing both branches
of congress.

Mrs. Harding walked slowly to her
automobile as the casket was being
placed in the gray hearse by pallbearers,
who were bent by its great weight.

hearse and Mrs. Harding had left
with clanging bell, clattered over a
crossing and the noises of the railroad
yard were resumed.

At 1:15 p. m. the hearse started
for the home of the president's aged
father, Dr. George Harding, where a large crowd awaited it.

EARLIER SCENES RE-ENACTED

Mrs. Harding Rests Well During Night Following Her Trying Day

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

On Board The President Harding
Funeral Train, Aug. 9.—Ohio, mother
state of six presidents, received
back today the latest of her sons to add lustre to her name. Returning
in death, he bore upon his bier
the garlands of a nation's sorrow and
love.

Warren G. Harding came back to his home folk this morning. Years
spheres of activity and honor, full
of splendid vigor, robust in health.
He came back today cold and pale
with outstretched arms to receive
him to his rest.

The funeral train from Washington
entered Ohio early today. It was scheduled to end its journey at Marion
about 9:30 a. m. (Central Standard
Time.) At that hour the body of Marion's most distinguished citizen
relatives, friends and neighbors
who awaited it.

The coffin, shrouded by the flag
of the country Mr. Harding served
well, again was the magnet that
drew eyes of thousands during the
night, in Maryland and Pennsylvania,
as people put aside their own
could not put into words.

Beginning at Baltimore, one hour
through York, Harrisburg, Altoona
and Pittsburg, the scenes that marked the train's transcontinental
progress eastward were re-enacted
as it sped through the night and dawn.

At Baltimore, a rainstorm drenched
the lights of the funeral special faded
into the distance. At York, Pa.,
"Lead Kindly Light," while thousands
sang.

expressed fittingly the sorrow
of the Keystone State for her sister
commonwealth to the west. Altoona
found miners and railroad workers standing in reverent silence in the night as the train glided by.

Pittsburg, for the second time in
two days, sent thousands to stand
uncovered in the semi-gloom of dawn.
Everywhere, the train stopped
flowers were put on board.

Mrs. Harding rested well after her
trying day in Washington yesterday.
She was somewhat distressed by reports
no foundation for such reports. Her step was as firm, her calm as unshaken, when she boarded the train at Washington last night, as at any time during the day. She was very tired and retired at once to her state room where she asked
that newspapers containing the
stories of the great statesman be brought to her. She read them with

MEMORIAL TO BE A PUBLIC AFFAIR

Services at Chautauqua Grounds
To Be Free To All

Houses Will Close

At the eleventh hour today plans
were changed for the Warren G.
Harding Memorial services Friday
and it was decided to make the affair
public and free to everyone.

to take place at the chautauqua
during the intermission in the band concert, but arrangements were made this afternoon for the gates of
the chautauqua to be thrown open
immediately after the band concert
Friday afternoon for the memorial
and everyone who wishes to attend
will be admitted free of charge.

proclamation, but urged the observance
of the state and national proclamations,
which have previously been proclaimed by Governor McCray
and President Coolidge.

Fitting tribute to the deceased
president will be paid Friday afternoon
at the Rush county chautauqua
memorial service, and on account of
the banner attraction of Bachman's
band, it is expected that a large crowd will be gathered together for
the services.

The memorial will last 25 or 30
minutes, and will consist of an address
by the Rev. L. E. Brown, and
preceded by remarks from Dr. McClean
Work, platform manager. The Kiwanis quartette will sing during
the services, and the band will be
asked to play something appropriate.

The services here will be going
on, at the same time, that the funeral
Marion, O.

The Rushville postoffice has announced
its program for observance
account of the funeral services of the late president, Warren G. Harding.
The windows will be closed
from one to four o'clock, with no
mail delivery in the residence section.
The last delivery of the mail in the business section will be at the usual time.

Practically all business will be at
a standstill in the city after the
noon hour, and several concerns
have decided to remain closed all day.

Offices in the court house will be closed all day, and the banks will

GOVERNMENT TO MOVE TO MARION

Leaders Will Board Mourning
Train Tonight

FAREWELL VERY IMPRESSIVE

Last Journey of Body of Mr. Harding Made Through Endless Aisles
of People

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Temporary White House, Willard
Hotel, Washington, Aug. 9.—The
national government of the United
Ohio.

Executives, judicial and administrative
leaders of the sorrowing nation
will board a mourning train to carry the deep reverence of their people to Warren G. Harding in the little town where he will be buried.

His vice-president, now the nation's
chief executive, his supreme court,
his senate, his house of representatives,
his officials and his friends will travel far—abandoning the necessities of government to how their heads while his body is lowered
into the grave.

The government train leaves at 10 p. m. and will arrive at Marion
Friday.

The farewell of the the capital to the body of Mr. Harding was the most impressive ceremony of the heart-rending 19 hours the remains were here.

The last journey of the body of Mr. Harding in Washington was made down from the capital to the station through an endless aisle of white sailors and khaki soldiers. Mr. Coolidge and the Harding cabinet—which he is for the present, at least, retaining, stood with hands crossed upon their breasts while the same Marine band that greeted the body the night before, bade it farewell
Kindly Light."

great course at the station mingling
with the rumbling of trains while
Mr. Coolidge and the cabinet stood
in sorrow.

The president returned to the Willard Hotel where he has his temporary
office and home and dressed for
dinner.

The president is deeply grieved and
does not wish to be bothered with
matters of state until he returns
from the funeral services at Marion to take up vigorously the impending
questions of the nation.

Action of Mr. Coolidge in the anthracite coal situation is eagerly awaited.
The observers believe he will not hesitate to seize the mines

PRES. BENHAM ON THE STAND

(By United Press)

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 9.—High officials
of the R. L. Dollings, fiscal
brokerage house, were under fire today
in the receivership hearing of the Phoenix Portland Cement company
of Ohio, a Dollings subsidiary.

William H. Benham, president and general manager of the Dollings
Company, said to be a $94,000,000
concern, was to resume testifying at
the opening of court.

Attorney General C. C. Crabbe,
questioning Benham, late yesterday
brought out that the general manager-ship carried an annual income in excess of $90,000, that Benham did
not know why thousands of dollars
worth of stock was being floated in
the company, and that the Phoenix
Nazareth, Pa.

The stock was sold, he admitted,
with the understanding that the company
controlled the Nazareth plant.

The Cement Company is the nineteenth Dollings subsidiary to go into receivership, receivers having been
named for eighteen others.

Benham and Dwight Harrison,
vice president of the parent organization,
were to be questioned, relative to stock selling methods of the company.

PRISON REFORM 'ADVANCE SHOWN

Dr. L. V. Rule, Chaplain of Reformatory,
Speaks to Chautauqua Audience
Wednesday Night

Peak of Entertainment Features at Assembly to be Reached Today
and Friday

The development of the prison reform
movement in Indiana, which
started from the revelations of condition
written by a prisoner, was outlined at the chautauqua Wednesday by Dr. L. V. Rule, chaplain
at the state reformatory at Jeffersonville,
of the institution, who was scheduled
to deliver the address, but was unable to come on account of a pressing engagement.

Dr. Rule has been chaplain at
the institution for several years and
most of his life has been engaged
in reform work among prisoners,
so that he was qualified to speak on
the subject. He paid many compliments
to Mr. Shideler's ability as an executive and his qualities as a
man unusually well fitted to deal
with men who live in the city of
dead souls.

The Mercer Concert company by
Harry Yeazelle Mercer, well known
American tenor, gave an hour's concert
following the lecture last night
audience, the crowd being the smallest
night attendance this season,
which has been characterized by
larger crowds.

The peak of the entertainment
features of the assembly were expected
to be reached today and Friday when the Shepherd of the Hills company and Bachman's Million Dollar band were to be here. Two plays were on the program today,
"The Shepherd of the Hills" being
the offering for tonight. The band
will give two concerts at 2:15 and 7:30 o'clock, and following the afternoon
concert, Dr. W. McClean Work,
the platform manager, will lecture on the topic, "The Hand of God in History."

The Mercer Concert company was
has been here in years. Every member of the company was possessed of an unusually well trained voice
and their selection of numbers was
well suited for the concert here,
many of them being familiar to the
company's hearers.

Although Mr. Mercer, by his genial

MAKES PLEA FOR FUNDAMENTALS

Benjamin J. Burris, State Superintendent
of Public Instruction,

ATTENDANCE OFFICER TALKS

Dr. Leon H. Vincent Says Lowell
Was a Patriot, Scholar, Gentleman
and Fine American

The public school is one institution
that must hew close to the line
of government fundamentals, Benjamin
J. Burris, state superintendent of public instruction, told teachers
attending the Rush county teachers
institute at the close of the session
today.

He importuned the teachers to
teach children that the radical
theories of government that are advanced
in many quarters are dangerous
and that the constitution has not outlived its usefulness.

The state superintendent discussed
many of the radical tendencies of
the day, such as the proposal to
give congress power to over-ride
decisions of the United States supreme court, declaring that such a law
would cause the whole system of
government to be changed.

Mr. Burris attacked other fallacies
of government that are now being advanced as a cure for the fancied ills of the present age and pointed to the responsibility of school teachers
everywhere in implanting firm
faith in the minds of children in American institutions and the American
form of government, which safeguards
the right of every individual
and protects him against the injustices
of the majority.

He called attention to the fact
republican and not a democracy, that
it is a government in which direct
action has no place.

Miss Blanche Merry, state attendance
officer, also addressed the
teachers' institute this morning,
pointing out the relation and need of
co-operation between the schools
and the county attendance officers,
and also urged the importance of
better type of individuals for the position of attendance officer.

Miss Merry stated that there are 158 attendance officers in the state,
and an effort is being made to make
the officers advanced persons, capable
in all respects, and with the aim
of the state to keep all of the children
in school or accounted for by the officers.

Of these officers 90 were classed

Director, Holds Seth Ward, His

ANDERSON MAN WAS SHOT

Indianapolis, Ind., August 9.—
The shooting of Elisha Northcutt in Anderson yesterday by Seth Ward, a
prohibition agent, was justified, Bert
C. Morgan, federal prohibition director
for Indiana, declared today after returning from Anderson where he
investigated the case.

"It was simply a case of Ward
shooting Northcutt or Northcutt
shooting Ward and the policeman
with him," Morgan said. "It was
a question of Ward saving the policeman's
life and possibly his own."

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 9.—A coroner's inquest will be held today on the
death of Elisha Northcutt, 55,
who was shot and killed by Seth
Ward, federal prohibition agent, in a raid on Northcutt's soft drink establishment
yesterday.

Ward, who was released on $2,000
bond after the shooting, and R. C.
Minton, legal advisor of the federal
prohibition department, came here
from Indianapolis for the inquest.

The enforcement agent, Mr. Ward,
mentioned above, was known here,
and will be remembered as the agent
who handcuffed a local attorney in
the court house following a liquor
trial, in which the attorney was
charged by the officer with making
an attack against his reputation.

KETCHUM FINDS NO TRUTH IN THE STORY

Prosecutor Announces He Has Made Complete Investigation Into Alleged Attack on Girl.

Prosecutor Gates Ketchum issued
a statement today in which he stated
that he had just completed making
an investigation of the alleged attack
on Zella Aldridge, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aldridge of Sexton, and the officer
branded the story as false, and said
that in his estimation the young woman
has suffered from an hallucination.

The prosecutor stated that no
charges would be filed, because there
was no violation of any criminal law,
and the matter was out of his hands.

after asking her many questions and
receiving her answers, he said the
story did not seem probable, and the
incidents did not hang together.

Miss Aldridge, however, still clings
to the story and refuses to break
down and make a confession.

Neighbors living in that vicinity
are alarmed over the conditions that
are said to exist, and may appeal
for help, it is said.

A Farmer's View of the Railroads

"I THINK that the farming business and the railroad business are so utterly dependent upon each other, their interests are so identical that the man who drives a wedge between them is either crazy or he is a crook."

"What I want most of all is service and I don't see how any railroad can give it unless it has a good safe track and sufficient cars and the ample power to pull them, and that means ENOUGH MONEY to buy them."

"The question before us is not 'shall we save a few dollars on freight?' but 'shall the railroad business remain a business or shall it be a government agency owned in common but run by political employees?' If it is to remain a business it will have to be run as a business and run to pay at least six per cent. for its owners. If it is to be communized, that is owned in common, I am just warning you that the communists will not wish to stop there. They will some day covet your farms."

"They can't have mine!"

F. L. Chapman, Editor, "Better Farming."

Agriculture, transportation and industry are three mighty elements in America's greatness. Their interests are one and inseparable now and always. Neither can prosper, in any substantial and lasting way, save as the others prosper in equal degree.

A Farmer's View of the Railroads

"I THINK that the farming business and the railroad business are so utterly dependent upon each other, their interests are so identical that the man who drives a wedge between them is either crazy or he is a crook."

"What I want most of all is service and I don't see how any railroad can give it unless it has a good safe track and sufficient cars and the ample power to pull them, and that means ENOUGH MONEY to buy them."

"The question before us is not 'shall we save a few dollars on freight?' but 'shall the railroad business remain a business or shall it be a government agency owned in common but run by political employees?' If it is to remain a business it will have to be run as a business and run to pay at least six per cent. for its owners. If it is to be communized, that is owned in common, I am just warning you that the communists will not wish to stop there. They will some day covet your farms."

"They can't have mine!"

F. L. Chapman, Editor, "Better Farming".

She commended the local school board for hiring a person like Miss Dorothy Sparks, a college graduate, who has made her college work fit her for the position.

Miss Merry urged that the better type of attendance officer is one who will take an interest in the boys and girls, and follow them at all times in their grades, and give them help when it is needed. In this connection the attendance officer should follow the pupils to the eighth year commencement, and then encourage them to go on through high school. The aim of every attendance offer, she asserted, should be to keep the boys and girls in school until the finish.

This personal interest of the attendance officer should also be directed upon those boys and girls who are classed as incorrigible, mentally deficient, or afflicted physically, Miss Merry urged, because in this manner it would keep the school organization in close contact.

Miss Merry also urged that school teachers should do their part in showing an interest in the pupils, and their influence, if directed in the right channels, would no doubt lessen the number of bad boys and girls and keep them in school.

The greatest places where teachers fail, she said, is in teaching discipline, and in teaching the boys and girls to respect property, and it is these things that usually result in the young people being brought into court at an early age, and made a ward of the court.

In speaking on "Lowell as a Critic, Letter-Writer, and American," Dr. L. H. Vincent this morning, in his closing lecture, paid him the tribute of being a poet, gentleman, scholar and patriot and one of the finest exponents of this new world.

Dr. Vincent has a most delightful way of lecturing and his frequent quaint methods of illustrating points that he desires to impress on his hearer makes attendance at his lectures a real joy.

This morning a dog, wholly unconcerned as a dog naturally would be, strolled into the assembly room of the court house, sniffed around and apparently sought some familiar face. Dr. Vincent was disturbed.

Dr. Vincent said Lowell's writings were distinguished by his liking for common things and delightful in that one never knows what one is going to find in them. He told of Lowell's delusion regarding poultry, common to the present day, that there was not an egg to correspond with each hen. He wrote that he found great improvement, Dr. Vincent recalled, when he sent the hired hand down to the poultry yard to read to the hens every morning a half hour before breakfast.

Dr. Vincent spoke of his lecture tours, his aversion for such things and how he described the greetings of the solemn committees with "fish-tail" hands and the smoking stoves and cold lecture halls.

The speaker said Lowell believed in a distinctly American literature but that he stood out against an American literature made over night. Dr. Vincent recalled that Dr. Johnson once said patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel, but Lowell never clung to the theory that a book was good simply because it was American.

Dr. Vincent recalled the defy of John Bull who said "You Americans call yourself a nation, where is your literature?" Promptly there sprang up an American literature, Dr. Vincent stated. It was made in a day, books were written in a day and people bought them and read them for

America's sake and gave them up for their own sake.

There came into being, he continued, an American Milton "when one Milton is enough and many of us have not done our duty by him." This American Milton wrote blank verse, Dr. Vincent asserted, that was blander than Milton's just before he fell asleep. Lowell stood out against all this, the lecturer said.

"Lowell's chief power was in being able to embody simple, everyday things in language that everybody could understand," Dr. Vincent said.

"But Lowell could not bring himself to read what he had written," Dr. Vincent recalled. "You have to have the courage to face your own verse if you have that flawless perfection that Tennyson had."

join with other business houses in closing at the noon hour. The closing of business houses at noon was requested by the city council and Mayor Thomas, at the meeting Tuesday night.

The C. I. & W., Pennsylvania, Big Four and L. E. & W. freight offices also will be closed from noon for the remainder of the day Friday on account of the period of mourning for President Harding, it was announced this morning.

Several people from Rushville and the county have made it known that they will attend the services in Marion, and many will leave early in the morning by automobile for Marion which is 179 miles from here. Some planned to go by motor today and remain in a small town near Marion tonight and others were expecting to go on the special train reserved by the republican state central committee.

ex-president's remains was specially built, and was driven here during the night from Ravenna, Ohio. It is gray, with some small glass panels in the sides. In each panel is a Masonic emblem.

Marion awoke this morning to face the saddest ordeal of her history.

Early today Center Street, along the route from the Union Station to the home of the president's father, was roped off. In places of vantage along the line, and at the station people had begun to take their positions hours before the scheduled arrival of the funeral train.

Militiamen were stationed at every intersection to keep back the throngs eager to watch the procession.

ways leading into Marion were other soldiers, diverting automobiles to parking space in the county fair grounds and nearby fields. So rapid was the influx of visitors from all parts of the country Wednesday that military authorities in charge of the traffic problem thought it best to keep all outside cars on the outskirts of Marion.

The procession from the station to Dr. Harding's home was to be led by the military guard of 18 which has been with the body constantly since it left San Francisco. The hearse will be followed by three automobiles bearing members of the cabinet, Speaker Gillett and Senator Cummins.

The fourth car in line is a limousine with drawn curtains. In it will be Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, the woman to whom all the sympathy of old friends and neighbors in Marion will be offered. With her will be Secretary Christian and Brig. Gen. Sawyer.

Seven cars following that of Mrs. Harding will be occupied by relatives. These, with eight others, for other members of the Washington party—twenty cars in all—will make up the procession.

Through Center Street, the heart of Marion's business district, the concourse will go directly to Dr. Harding's home, where, after 2 p. m., the body will lie in state.

Every arrangement for the funeral made by Colonel Frank P. Lahn, President Coolidge's personal representative, and Hoke W. Donighan, lawyer and personal friend of the Hardings, has been made with the one purpose of saving Mrs. Harding the ordeal of a ceremonious funeral.

No sermon will be preached, no bands will play; there will be neither flashing of sabres, rumble of artillery wheels nor firing of salutes to mark the laying away of President Warren G. Harding.

The list of participants in the funeral procession has been limited strictly to those near relatives and closest personal and official friends whose presence has been necessary. Only fifty automobiles have been provided for the procession to the cemetery on Friday.

Yet, many thousands have come and more are coming to Marion to pay their last respects to the chief executive who was stricken down at the height of his career. These, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Harding, will be given an opportunity, for twelve hours during the president's last stop at his father's home, to pass by the coffin and view the remains.

Around the vault a space sufficient to accommodate the members of the mourning party will be roped off, and the thousands who come to pay a last tribute to the nation's dead chief will find their own positions on the grass covered slopes surrounding the vault.

GOD'S PROMISES KEPT—

There hath not failed one word of all his good promises.—1 Kings 8: 56.Budget Savings

The Director of the Budget has filed his annual report with the President, and we are permitted to see just how the marvelous recovery from a huge estimated deficit to a substantial surplus was achieved. On July 1, 1922, the beginning of the last fiscal year, it was estimated that the end of the year would find a deficit of $222,453,231. At the close of the year, on June 30, 1923, the deficit had been wiped out and there was a surplus of $369,657,460. In other words, the Treasury had gained during the year the sum of those two figures or $1,132,690,691. Increased receipts accounted for $768,101,415.62 of that gain and decreased expenditures accounted for $363,989,275.68.

The receipts were augmented by additional customs revenue under the rates of the tariff law, as they were assessed against rapidly rising imports from abroad. The treasury income was also increased by taxes on the higher incomes made possible by industrial prosperity, and by the zeal and energy of treasury officials in collecting huge arrears of back taxes. The decreased expenditures are due, in the words of the budget director, to "the efforts of individual departments and establishments, and to the fine spirit of cooperation by them in carrying out the economy policies of President Harding." It should be added that those executive officials have been personally urged on numerous occasions by Mr. Harding to save every penny possible, with the plain intimation from him that if they failed to give their

The dependence of home owners, as well as of business men, upon fire insurance is again emphasized by a preliminary report issued by the Bureau of Census which states that in 1920, mortgages aggregating $11,001,000,000 were outstanding upon "owned homes and farms in the Continental United States." The value of these mortgaged properties was $31,708,000,000; so that the money borrowed upon them amounted to 34.7 percent of the total.

The point to bear in mind is that had it not been for fire insurance to protect these homes and farms, it would not have been possible to borrow this huge sum, since mortgages are not in the habit of risking their money on property that may be destroyed overnight, unless their investment is properly safeguarded. It would be easy to go further and point out that had it not been possible to secure the billions mentioned above, the farms included could never have been established and would never have contributed their quota to the nation's production of food-stuffs.

Insurance is the basis of credit to a very great extent and it is dangerous to tamper with a sound credit system.

AMUSEMENTS*"The Woman Conquers"

As a rule screen beauties are not called upon to do much except to be photographed to the best effect. It is a matter which usually involves much posing elaborate lighting effects and gorgeous costuming, but in "The Woman Conquers," the first National attraction which will be seen Friday and Saturday at the Princess Theatre, Katherine MacDonald, the "American beauty of the screen," does some acting that is said to rank among the finest of her motion picture performances in its emotional effectiveness.

Miss MacDonald also gives battle to a big brute of a man, loads the man whom she loves onto a dog sled, fights her way through a blinding blizzard guiding the dog team, and then drags the man to safety.

Such are mental and physical demands made upon Miss MacDonald and they lift her far out of the "screen beauty" class into the ranks of leading screen actresses.

"The Woman Conquers" has been produced with an all star cast including Bryant Washburn, Mitchell Lewis, Jane Elvidge, Clarissa Selwynne, Boris Karloff and Francis McDonald. Violet Clark wrote the story and Tom Forman directed the production. It is presented by B. P. Schulberg.

FIRPO-DOWNEY BOUT IS SET FOR AUG. 17

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9—Jack Druley, promoter of the Latis Firpo-Joe Downey bout which was called off here last night on order of Governor McCray, announced today that arrangements have been made to hold the bout on Aug. 17.

The bout was ordered stopped when citizens protested to the governor against permitting the fight to be held during the period of mourning for President Harding.

Hugh Gartland, business manager for Firpo, said the Argentine fighter had agreed to come back to Indianapolis August 17 and stage the fight in order to save Druley from heavy financial loss.

Druley had erected a special arena for the fight and thousands of tickets had been sold.

Governor McCray said today he would permit the Firpo-Downey boxing exhibition to be held August 17 if the management of the fight makes it clear that it is to be an "exhibition" and not a "prize fight."

"I have one attitude, and one attitude only, simply that of upholding the law," the governor said when he was informed today that the promoters of the fight were going ahead with plans for the bout on August 17. "The law of Indiana says there shall be no prize fights."

"If the bout in question is an exhibition I have no objections. It is a question, however, whether they can bring a man of Firpo's reputation here and stage anything other than a prize fight."

With assurances from the governor that the bout would not be stopped as long as it was a "boxing match," promoters planned to keep within the law and hold the match on August 17.

Although Rushville citizens were given credit for stopping the Firpo-Downey boxing match in Indianapolis, it is understood here that Richmond citizens were the first to protest against the match being held while the body of President Harding lay unburied. The telegram drawn up by the public affairs committees of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs was sent to the governor shortly before two o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at 3:30 o'clock the Daily Republican received a bulletin that the bout had been ordered postponed by the governor.

Criqui, Wilde Show Gameness

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 9—Because there were a few, a very few, examples to prove the point, it has been a generally accepted opinion in the United States for a good many years that gameness was not one of the qualities of European fighters.

Through a hard-boiled idea that a fighter is a "dog" who resigns under punishment, Americans after searing the notation of "retirements" on the records of European fighters, got the idea that there wasn't a real fighting heart on the other side.

When Carpenter was being steamed up as a candidate for the heavyweight championship three years ago, the skeptics pointed out: "He quit every time he had a hard fight."

When a casual mention was made of Joe Beckett and the chances of the British heavyweight champion against Dempsey, scoffs came back and retorts followed that he was the world's diving champion, without an argument.

There may be timid hearts among the European boxers. There are bound to be because there are faint-hearted ones among the American fighters. No figures are available to back up the point that the ratio of back-steppers in the European ring is no greater than it is on this side.

There are two good examples to prove the point that in at least two cases America has no sole rights to game fighting hearts.

Whatever suspicion might have been directed at Wilde, the former flyweight champion, were not based on anything that could be found on his record, but upon the general assumption that he was British and could not stand the gaff.

Wilde was the last of the world's champions that England owned, and since he was held up before his fight with Villa as the representative of the whole English class, it only follows that he should have been considered the same after the fight and that he proved himself about the gamest little fellow that was ever beaten up and out of a title.

Punched dizzy by Pancho Villa, floundering around the ring out of his head, he was carried on only by the urge of a game heart.

Wilde was praised as much for his gameness in defeat as Villa was for his part in victory.

The Score Board

Dixie Davis fanned Babe Ruth and Elmer Smith in the 9th inning with two on base and the Browns beat the Yankees 4 to 3.

Ainsmith's homer in the eighth inning gave the Cards a 4 to 3 victory over the Giants.

Tony Kaufmann held the Phils to five feeble hits and the Cubs won 4 to 2.

Red Faber held the Athletics safe all the way while Harris was found in the pinches, and the White Sox won 5 to 3.

George Burns hit a homer and gave the Red Sox the second game 3 to 2 after the Tigers had won the first 4 to 0.

STATE IS BUSY SUPPLYING FISH

Restocking Public Streams Shows
Interest That is Manifest in

MILLIONS HATCHED THIS YEAR

State Makes Sure That Streams are
Suitable Food For Fish

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9—Ever increasing interest is manifested by the people of the state in restocking with fish the public waters of Indiana, declares George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division of the state conservation department, and this season is an unusually busy one with the department endeavoring to fill all applications. The close of the season will see millions of baby bass, bluegills, crappie, rock bass and pike perch raised at the four state hatcheries this summer liberated in public waters.

"Our first consideration in making fish plants," says Mr. Mannfeld, "is to ascertain if the waters are unpolluted and sufficiently supplied with suitable food. We do not wish to waste fish we plant and they must have sufficient food before we introduce them to their future habitat. Most of the game fish planted live mainly at the expense of other fish."

Among fishes they occupy to a great extent a position similar to the lion, tiger, wolf, and other carnivorous animals, often killing just for the love of it. Too many bass therefore confined in a body of water means they ultimately destroy all other species. On the other hand where food is plentiful, they grow rapidly. Experience proves that a large-mouth black bass will grow to be six pounds in four years.

Reports reaching the department show that squirrels are unusually plentiful this season. One warden recently reported counting 21 in a single beech tree in Owen county. The open season for shooting this animal began August 1 and ends on November 30th.

Mr. Mannfeld in a letter to 150 protective fish and game associations operating Indiana, says his division contemplates purchasing a quantity of wild rice seed for planting in streams and lakes to attract wild ducks, and that if associations interested in this work will notify him, the department will provide them with seed free of cost.

Society.

The W. R. C. held a business meeting Wednesday afternoon in the G. A. R. room of the court house. Several matters pertaining to the business of the organization were discussed.

The members of the American Literary Club enjoyed their annual picnic Wednesday evening at the City Park. A bountiful six o'clock dinner was served. Following the serving of the repast the members enjoyed a social hour.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Plum Creek Christian church held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the church. A splendid program was given and an enjoyable social hour held following the program.

Mrs. Clifford McGinnis was a delightful hostess Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Rebekah Crochet Club at her home in East Eighth street. The meeting opened with a short business session and was followed by an informal social afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Beckner and daughter Phyllis Jean entertained Sunday with an elegant three course dinner in honor of the sixth birthday of their son William. The centerpiece of the table was a large birthday cake adorned with six candles. The day was spent socially with music on the Edison. Those who enjoyed the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lee, daughter Maxine and son Fredrick, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Lee, daughter Mabel and son Harlan.

THE BEACH LILY!

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for United Press)

New York, N. Y., Aug. 9—Consider the lily of the beach. She toils not—neither does she swim. At every beach we find them—these lilies of the beach! Their complexions are as white as the foam of the sea. Lo! They parch not and peel not, but wax fat on the sands under enormous umbrellas. Be the sun's rays too bright, they are goggled in amber lenses. What sun penetrates through their spectacles hits not flesh, but layers of powder.

It was rumored last season that Zeigfeld offered a prize to the Folies girl who wept through the season without becoming disfigured by sunburn. It may be that the vogue for sun-protection started in this way.

Quite the most astounding sight that I have witnessed this year on the beaches was a "beach lily" done up in a brown batik frock, which had a high-lace-trimmed neck and long skin-tight sleeves. Her parasol

In the Heart of a Child

"Rest in Peace" reads the card on this floral offering which Ambrose J. W. Higgins, Jr., five, of New York City, hands to John Trice, White House staff officer. It was written in the lad's own scrawl. It is just one of those little things that shows that Warren G. Harding lives in the hearts of children.

hid her mether portions from view and I presumed that she was dressed for the day, so to speak. When suddenly, without warning, she leisurely lifted her parasol displaying two of the brownest bare legs that I have ever seen. The incongruity of the bather's legs and the Fifth Avenue "upper" was amazing.

Of course, there have been all sorts of lovely bathing suits introduced this season ranging from silk batiks and velvets to simple little gingham and printed linens. But the real swimmers are still wearing and will continue to wear the jersey suit as it permits complete freedom for swimming. Vacation girls find it preferable to all other types of suits and since the ban on the one-piece has been lifted at most resorts, the woman who goes in for swimming as a sport need have no qualms about wearing what she pleases.

Double rubber caps with the chin-strap are quite the best sort for the swimmer. One cannot really enjoy the water with ends of batik and bandana handkerchiefs flowing in the foam. Even the girl with the permanent wave hesitates a bit before getting her hair wet as continual applications of cold water tend to eliminate the curl.

Rubber upper-arm bracelets for swimming have tiny pockets in which small change may be kept. They come in very handy as it isn't always easy to get back to one's locker for change and popcorn and peanuts taste mighty good after a long swim.

The newest bathing shoes are made in sandal effect, with soles of heavy chamois and uppers of white canvas. Straps of colored leather are used as a trim and as a support to the foot and ankle. Often a beach shoe of this kind extends half way to the knee. The all-rubber beach shoe is pretty in its bright colors but unless the beach is free of broken glass and stones, it is inadvisable to wear a rubber-soled shoe.

Naval Camp Is Miniature Great Lakes Training Station

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9—A "miniature Great Lakes training station," visitors to the summer training camp of the U. S. Naval Reserves have characterized it.

Under command of Lieut. F. F. Knachel, "Camp Shank" has taken on an air of business and efficiency. More than one hundred and fifty boys, occupying individual tents are in training at the camp.

They go through a daily routine of swimming, drilling and boating. The program is similar to that of the regular navy, according to Lieut. Knachel.

Entertainment for the boys is provided in the evening in a large recreation room.

"If we can instill in the minds of the boys a deeper sense of loyalty to the flag and principles of good citizenship, the camp will certainly have been worth while," said P. M. Aikens, executive officer of the camp.

Five million dollars were appropriated by congress for the summer naval camps throughout the country. Indiana and Iowa are the only inland states having training camps.

SNOW IN NEBRASKA

Scotts Bluff, Neb., Aug. 9—A snow flurry near here today climaxed two weeks of rainy, cold weather.

Workers tunneling through the buttes for the Goring-Fort Laramie irrigation canal declared that snow fell in that section for fully five minutes.

BUSINESS HOUSES BURN

Bedford, Ind., Aug. 9—Fire of unknown origin today destroyed five one-story, frame business buildings here. The fire was discovered in the rear of a restaurant. A strong wind fanned the flames to adjoining buildings. A brick wall of two automobile salesrooms prevented the flames from spreading further. The loss has not yet been estimated.

Most Parts Of State Get Average Of About 40 Inches Of Rainfall a Year

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9.—Most parts of Indiana get an average of about forty inches of rainfall annually.

In parts of the north, slightly less than thirty five inches is the average, while in the south more than forty inches is normal, and at the extreme central south one small area usually receives as much as fifty inches or about forty per cent more than the driest part of the United States.

These conditions are spoken of at considerable length and the benefits of such precipitation noted on agricultural production, in the Hand Book of Indiana Geology, issued by the state conservation department, according to Richard Lieber, conservation director of this state.

The average decrease in precipitation in Indiana, says Mr. Lieber, is due chiefly in distance from the Gulf of Mexico, the great source of rainfall in eastern United States.

The eastern part of this state receives on an average more rainfall than the western margin, in keeping with the general increase in precipitation from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast, because the cyclonic "lows", the great agency which draws moisture northward from the Gulf of Mexico, move eastward.

The Hand Book points out that Indiana's precipitation is fairly evenly distributed throughout the year. Most months received about three inches, but a little more than half of the total for the state falls during the warmer six months, April to September inclusive. The southern half receives exactly half of the total precipitation during the warmer half of the year, while the northwestern corner receives sixty percent during that period.

Though the southern half of the State receives more rain during a year than the northern half droughts are more severe in that area. This is because the larger share of the rain comes in the winter when it does the crops little good; the temperature on average is higher, thus resulting in greater evaporation, and thunderstorms the water from which the run-off decrease in frequency and intensity towards the north. About one-tenth of Indiana's precipitation in the north and one-twentieth in the south, is snow, the Hand Book says.

manner more than with his vocal work, made a special appeal to the audience, the singing of the basso, Mrs. Kuhn, seemed to be more appreciated. His rendition of some well negro spirituals was counted the best ever heard here. The singing of the soprano and contralto was also splendid and the ensemble work of the organization was splendid. The pianist was warmly applauded when she played a piano solo.

Dr. Rule, in sketching the prison reform movement in Indiana, said that Edward Eggleston, by his writings, aroused the first sentiment against bad conditions in state prisons. The speaker recounted how some wardens treated prisoners in the sixties and how Charles and Rhoda Coffin prominent Quakers obtained consent of the authorities to make an investigation and got access to Jeffersonville.

The secretary to the chaplain there, the speaker recounted, by stealth wrote down some of the incidents of prison life and they were published with the consent of Gov. Baker and others.

"This was the beginning of prison reform in Indiana," Dr. Rule asserted. "But reforms and revolutions move slowly and it was not until 1895 that Mr. Hunt was called as warden at Jeffersonville and the change from a prison to a reformatory began."

Dr. Rule pointed out that reform begins inside and is moral and spiritual. He said the state was now building a reformatory at Pendleton that would be the model for the midwest. The chaplain asserted that the superintendent represents the spirit of the thing, "such as I have never seen." He said he had had an opportunity to compare him with other prison executives and found him the equal of any.

boys sent to the reformatory who were reformed and made good after a term because of Supt. Shideler's influence. Mr. Shideler could understand wayward boys' the speaker said, because he was left motherless at nine years of age and understood the pitfalls in their way.

When the boys enter the "city of dead souls," the prison chaplain asserted, only the touch of the Christ life can awaken them again. "Hundreds of Protestant and Catholic boys," he continued, "sit under teachers who respect the religious belief of every boy in the reformatory and who try to teach them about Christ."

"Just as you mothers, by that undefinable contact with your boys, through the discipline of love, see them blossom and unfold into manhood, so the life of every delinquent needs the touch of a friend, one who is sympathetic and understanding," declared the prison chaplain, in advocating the teaching of Jesus Christ in every institution.

The superintendent at Jeffersonville, the chaplain said, encourages that square dealing is the only way to get along. One of his aphorisms is that honesty is the best evidence of reformation.

Dr. Rule pointed out that 75 per cent of the boys leaving the reformatory make a success, according to the estimate of Amos Butler, former secretary of the state board of charities, but that Mr. Shideler thought 50 per cent was a very conservative estimate.

The superintendent, the speaker said, first points out to boys that they will get along best by doing right and the chaplain then explains to them what doing right consists of. He asserted, however, that the psychology of prison life will demoralize new boys if the utmost care is not taken.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. G. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to ask a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. It's the way, guaranteed, and meanwhile write to Bradford Torner Co., Box 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 9—Miss Nellie Myers, of Rushville, appeared recently in a convocation program given by students of the school of music of Indiana university. Miss Myers sang in the university choros. An audience of approximately 2000 summer term students, faculty, and visitors heard the concert and expressed its appreciation by repeated applause.

The program in which the Rushville student participated was one of a number presented by the Indiana university school of music for the purpose of entertainment and to give students an opportunity to appear before large public audiences. This is part of the practical training which the school offers its students of voice, orchestra, band, and chorus.

Miss Myers is one of 257 students taking courses in the school of music this summer. The department of music was organized as a separate school in 1921 for the purpose of giving students a complete education in the science and art of music, to prepare them for professional careers, to maintain a musical atmosphere in university life, and to cultivate a good taste for music. The curriculum includes courses in applied music, theory and composition, and courses in public school music. The bachelor's and master's degrees are offered. Professor B. W. Merrill is

1924 Models Are the Finest Big-Sixes Studebaker Ever Built

The enthusiasm with which the new 1924 model Studebaker cars have been received locally is an indication of the reception they have enjoyed throughout the country.

No wonder. They are emphatically the most compelling values Studebaker ever offered and the public knows that Studebaker has been a consistent leader, year after year, in the amount of intrinsic value per dollar invested.

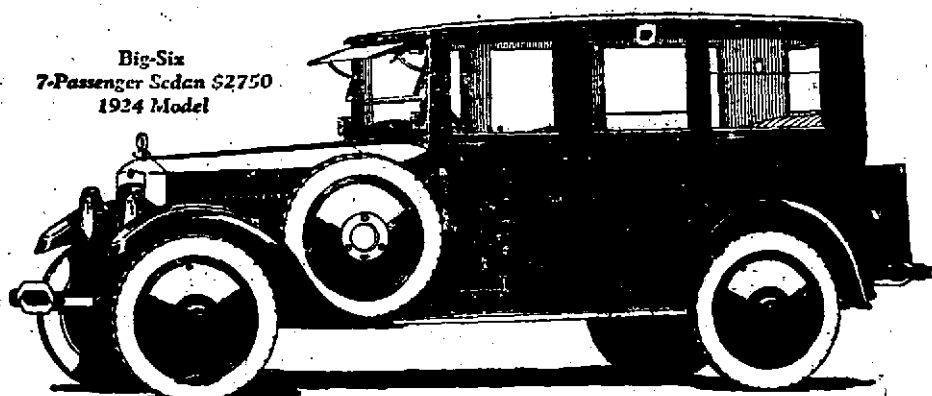

The Big Six Sedan and the Coupe are the finest cars that have ever borne the name Studebaker. They provide all the performance, all the comfort, and all the dependability that any car will give—at a price that smaller producers cannot approach.

Everything for which one can wish in motoring convenience, comfort and utility has been provided—even to the extra disc wheel with tire, tube and tire cover (two on Sedan); handsome, nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; large, roomy trunk; automatic gasoline signal, and many other features. There is nothing more to buy.

The prices of the Sedan and Coupe are moderate because of Studebaker's large production, vast physical and financial resources, the manufacture of all vital parts in Studebaker plants, and the accumulation of experience and prestige gained through 71 years of building quality vehicles.

What the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Means To You

WHEN the Standard Oil Company was born, this country of ours was a land of scattered agriculturists and a few centers of struggling industry.

Power was limited to the physical endurance of horse and man.

Had you lived then you would have enjoyed few of the comforts which today are a common heritage.

In one generation, living conditions in our country have changed completely.

Today, we are a prosperous nation. Our industrial production is intensive. The world is our market.

Petroleum products, created and manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have made new industries possible.

Individual opportunities have multiplied in exact ratio to the progress of industry.

New industrial practices and modern refinements have been made possible because petroleum furnished the operating power.

Petroleum supplied the lubricants needed for the speeding up of machinery and the consequent increased production.

With these new practices and the new institutions to manufacture the new products, came new opportunities of all kinds—for labor—for capital—for initiative.

Today you have an automobile—something your father never dreamed of owning.

The fact that you own an automobile is less significant than the fact that the machinery of industry—dependent upon petroleum for its successful operation—has made it possible for so large a percentage of people to own one.

Without petroleum products—the kind of petroleum products manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—the brawny arms of every other industry would shrivel to uselessness.

Without Standard Oil Company (Indiana) initiative and industrial daring your standard of living today would be on a different plane.
